Keynote Address

Roberta Brinton, PhD

Director, Center for Innovation in Brain Science, University of Arizona Health Sciences

Regents Professor

Professor of Neuroscience, UArizona College of Science

Professor of Psychology, UArizona College of Science

Professor of Pharmacology and Neurology, UArizona College of Medicine – Tucson

Professor of Pharmacology and Toxicology, UArizona College of Pharmacy

Dr. Roberta Diaz Brinton leads the Center for Innovation in Brain Science at the University of Arizona and is an internationally recognized expert on women and their risk of Alzheimer's disease. Her scientific discoveries have led to the development of innovative therapeutics to prevent, delay and treat Alzheimer's disease. Brinton is developing the first regenerative therapeutic to regenerate the degenerated brain.

Brinton is a University of Arizona alumna and earned her Ph.D. as an NIH Predoctoral Fellow. She went on to Rockefeller University as an NIH Postdoctoral Fellow. Brinton is a Regents Professor of Pharmacology, Neuroscience and Neurology at the University of Arizona College of Medicine – Tucson.

Brinton serves on the Alzheimer's Drug Discovery Foundation (ADDF) Board of Governors and the National Institutes of Health scientific boards and panels. Her research has been continuously funded for over two decades by the National Institute on Aging.

Her honors include the ADDF Scientist of the Year, the Goodes Prize for Excellence in Alzheimer's Drug Discovery and the 2010 U.S. Presidential Citizens Medal, the highest civilian honor for her work in improving science and technology education for students.

Outstanding Senior Address

College of Science Spring 2021

Eddie Vargas is a first-generation college student, aspiring physician, native Tucsonan, and the proud son of two Nicaraguan immigrants. While attending the University of Arizona as an Honors student, he completed a Bachelor of Science in Neuroscience and Cognitive Science (Neurobiology emphasis) with dual minors in Biochemistry and Spanish. Eddie discovered his passion for research as a member of Dr. Julie Miller's laboratory, where he helped develop a model of Parkinson's disease using the zebra finch songbird. Driven to support his fellow students through undergraduate teaching and mentorship opportunities, he is a founding member of the Department of Neuroscience Diversity Board, the President of the Neuroscience and Cognitive Science Ambassadors, a Student Ambassador for the College of Science, and an Instructional Manager for General Chemistry. He was privileged enough to volunteer in his local community as well; two of his most meaningful experiences include serving as a bilingual health screener and working with end-of-life patients as a hospice volunteer. Eddie feels that his greatest accomplishment, however, was being able to work with and contribute to the tight-knit community of peers that exists within the community at the University of Arizona.

Presentation of Graduates

Rebecca L. Gomez

Interim Associate Dean for Student Academic Success

Welcome

College of Science Graduates:

On behalf of the University of Arizona College of Science, I would like to begin by congratulating the college graduates of 2021. It is quite an accomplishment to complete a degree in science, and the University of Arizona takes great pride in your achievements and your vigorous pursuit of new knowledge. I hope that you will continue your proven success in your future lives. Your academic contributions, desire to learn, and dedication to our college groups and organizations have been invaluable to the College of Science, and we are grateful for the legacy that you are leaving behind.

This is an incredible time for science, and you are all fortunate to be a part of it. As future world leaders, I encourage you to fully embrace the opportunities science presents. Just as science has been the cornerstone of numerous great advances in the past, it is fundamental to solving the many challenges of tomorrow. Scientists are needed more than ever. Your success at the University of Arizona demonstrates your ability to do such work, and I am encouraged that you will strive to achieve the unimaginable. Challenges today are multidimensional and require varied points of view and expertise. So, whether your expertise lies in biochemistry, geosciences, or astronomy, given the world's many complex problems, your education has prepared you to contribute to innovative solutions of the unimaginable. All of you gathered here today have the privilege—and challenge—in taking part in this scientific revolution. This responsibility includes performing your work with great integrity and humanity. No one can take away your education, and I hope you view your hard-earned education as an opportunity to give back.

My congratulations to each one of you. As scientists, do not ever stop questioning; Always question, always wonder.

A handwritten signature in blue ink, appearing to read 'E. Cheu', with a long horizontal line extending to the right.

The University of Arizona sits on the original homelands of indigenous peoples who have stewarded this land since time immemorial. Aligning with the university's core value of a diverse and inclusive community, it is an institutional responsibility to recognize and acknowledge the people, culture and history that make up the Wildcat community. At the institutional level, it is important to be proactive in broadening awareness throughout campus to ensure our students feel represented and valued.
